The government's initiative to make foreign students actually know the current situation in Fukushima is very efficient and convenient, whereas the true situation sometimes does not correspond to what we see on the news of world television.

The trip made me see that the Japanese have done and are still doing everything to make the 2011 accident memories are forgotten. And in addition to recover with a dignified posture, they are still searching for new energy resources, such as solar energy: more ecological and less dangerous.

The Home Stay was a unique experience; and good Japanese hospitality is beyond compare. It is amazing!!
I could have contact with the day-to-day interior of Japan, going for the first time in an Onsen and I felt flavors I had never experienced before.

I Brought the province's symbol as a souvenir: Akabeko. Even I had the opportunity to paint it myself.

I met a Sake company and visited the Tsuruga Castle.

Finally, the opportunity was unique. With this trip could help disseminate correct information about the situation of Fukushima and I still had a great personal experience since met many of Asia and Africa.

Thank you so much for everything!
